

? Questions

Why do you need facilitation skills?

If you lead a team, head up a project committee, are chair of a public, private, volunteer board or working group, or you develop plans, create agendas or make decisions with others, you will find yourself in the position of having to engage others to work together to achieve results. At the core of all these skills lies facilitation.

What does the program offer?

The program is designed to build and strengthen your capability to become a great facilitative leader so that you can improve the way you engage, collaborate and relate to others you are working with to achieve the best from them.

It provides you with the opportunity to:

- understand facilitation and the impact you have in that role
- understand participants, their learning styles and ways of effectively engaging them
- understand group dynamics and how to get the best from people in any situation

When is the program available and how do I register?

Dates for our 2014 Public Programs are listed on our website www.globalleadershipfoundation.com with registration available on line. We are also able to provide in-house and customised programs to suit specific client needs on request.

↑ Investment

Your investment for the program is $2,500 plus GST, comprising 4 days of learning inclusive of individual coaching, materials and catering.

The Achieving Results Through Others program is offered as 3 modules delivered over 6 half days, enabling participants to continue their learning through workplace observation and application between each module. The fourth day includes a 2-hour peer coaching held during the program and a half day individual coaching session post the program to continue to strengthen capability.

The learning environment comprises a small group, offering a high level of interaction and practice.

Register online at:

www.globalleadershipfoundation.com

For further information contact:
Mary Maddock on 0438 383 761

ABN 65104582381

Global Leadership Foundation Pty. Ltd.
Unit 4, 535 Flinders Lane
Melbourne VIC 3000
Phone: +61396212811

ACHIEVING RESULTS THROUGH OTHERS

Leading through Facilitating

Modules

- What do we mean by facilitation?
- What do we do?
- What do we know about ourselves and our impact as a facilitative leader?
- What are the core practices for successful facilitation?

- What happens in a group?
- Why is listening important and how do we truly listen?
- Why are questions important and how do we craft powerful ones to shift the conversation?
- In what ways can we manage challenging situations, assist others to explore and discover what is possible and support them in creating positive outcomes

- What do we need to know about learning preferences and styles?
- What does it mean to ensure we engage, involve and validate participants?
- Why is giving and receiving facilitative feedback important for growth and development?

Our Experience

Global Leadership Foundation was established to provide leadership pathways and build leadership capability for people from all walks of life.

It leads by example in supporting significant leadership experiences and community leadership programs and not for profit organisations in volunteer, facilitator, mentor and philanthropic roles.

Achieving Results Through Others was developed in response to our clients' need for a specific focus on building leadership capability through facilitation.

It has been co-created by several members of our experienced and practising facilitation team, which ensures it is relevant, practical, innovative and has "real life" application.

"Incredible personal insights gained about how to get the best out of people in the time you have available with them. Supportive and encouraging learning environment. Has shifted me as a leader forever."

Nicole Brook, Managing Director, Auschar Pty Ltd

"The training I have undertaken through the Global Leadership Foundation has provided me with a host of tools to better engage, listen and achieve goals in both my professional and personal life. I use the skills I have learnt on a daily basis and I cannot speak highly enough of the facilitators, the content and the program. It's one of the best training programs I have participated in."

Kellie Monger, Marketing Manager, Destination Melbourne